Within the protected historic industrial buildings of the 'Alte Spinnerei' in Kolbermoor, a mix of restaurants, cafés, retail industry and services is situated in this attractive area alongside the canal of the former power plant. This includes the Café "Giuseppe e amici" in the 'Kesselhaus' and the identically named restaurant in the former 'Baumwollmagazin'.

Applying a few individual measures, the functions and architectural designs have been upgraded: A café was included, with a canopy in front of the street side entrance and a new organization of the whole entrance area. The Catering area was transformed with a new counter, new paneling for the kitchen pod and a large ceiling light.

The multifunctional 'Markthalle' (market hall) was also redesigned. In addition a new restaurant was built, with a pergola over the outside terrace alongside the canal and a 'showgrill' (open Barbecue area) on the inside.

The transformation of the 'Rosengarten' with its significant tensile structure roofing is completed with these small measures.
