

JÖRG USINGER

PARTNER, BEHNISCH ARCHITEKTEN STUTTGART

Jörg Usinger, born in 1966 in Frankfurt/Main, studied architecture at the RTWH Aachen and the former Technical University of Karlsruhe. Before obtaining his diploma in 1993, he was assistant at the Department of Structural Design. In 1993 he joined Behnisch & Partner, the practice of Günter Behnisch, where he was responsible for a number of award winning-competitions and projects. Since 2005, Jörg worked with Behnisch Architekten and gained extensive experience in numerous projects both in Germany and abroad, and was, amongst others, project leader of the Thermal Spa Römerbad in Bad Kleinkirchheim/Austria, the Institute for Technical Physics at the KIT and the BadenCarreè in Karlsruhe. Over 9 years, between 2003 and 2012 he taught at the University in Stuttgart. Jörg is currently project manager for the Dorotheenquartier in Stuttgart. Since 2016 he leads the Stuttgart office together with Stefan Behnisch and Stefan Rappold.

PROJECTS (SELECTION)

- Dorotheen Quartier, Retail, Offices and Inner City Living, Stuttgart, Germany
- Institute for Technical Physics, Karlsruhe, Germany
- BadenCarreè, Inner City Living, Karlsruhe, Germany
- Thermal Spa Römerbad, Bad Kleinkirchheim, Austria
- State Insurancy Agency Schleswig-Holstein, Lübeck, Germany
- North German State Clearing Bank, Hannover, Germany

PROFESSIONAL DESIGNATIONS

- Registered Architect: Baden-Württemberg, Germany

PROFESSIONAL

since 2017	Partner, Behnisch Architekten, Stuttgart, Germany
since 2009	Project- and Quality management
2005 - 2015	Senior Architect, Behnisch Architekten, Stuttgart, Germany
2003 - 2012	Assistant at the University Stuttgart, Germany
1993 - 2005	Architect in Behnisch & Partner, Germany
1990 - 1992	Assistant at the Technical University, Karlsruhe, Germany

EDUCATION

- | | |
|-------------|--|
| 1989 - 1993 | • Technical University of Karlsruhe, Diploma in Architecture |
| 1987 - 1989 | • RWTH Aachen |