Heidelberg, DE

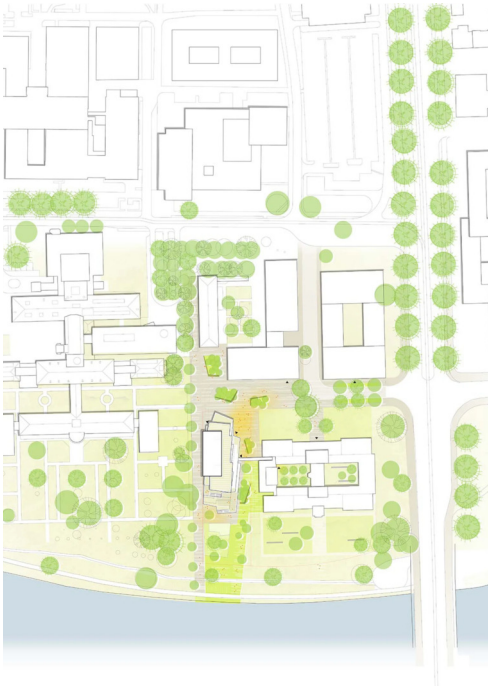

2020–2028

Behnisch Architekturbüro's new building for the Max Planck Institute for Medical Research in Heidelberg is to be sited in a prominent location. The building has an explicitly welcoming appearance, and its visual form reinforces the idea of an open, communicative research facility. Standing directly on the Neckar River, this institutional structure is a landmark feature of the cityscape that can be seen for miles and a powerful symbol of Heidelberg's established status as a center for science.
